To the Friends of Fremont.—The undersigned, having constituted themselves a Committee for the exclusive purpose of circulating Decemberts bearing upon the momentous questions now at issue before the American people, respectfully invite contributions from all who are interested in securing the triumph of Liberty and Law at the approaching election. Money in large or small sums, from whatever quarter it is reserved, will be scrupiously applied to this soit object, and not one cent of it will be diverted to any other use. All that is precessary, in order to carry the election by unexampled majorities, is that the People should have the means of theoroughly understanding the recklessness, felly and imbedity of the present National Administration, the outrages of which the Prec-State men of Kanasa are the victims, the necessity of seconing that Territory to Freedom, and the qualifications of the People's camidiate for the Presidency.

Contributions may be addressed to the Secretary of the Committee.

A complication of Difficulties of a serious character occurred yesterday in a respectable family. The father, while engaged in his husiness, was thrown on the floor, braising his arm and side; on arriving at his house he found his youngest bey suffering great pain, attended with swelling back of the short ribs; the mother, in attempting to life the child from the floor, strained herself severely. Here were three persons suddenly rendered helpless. An active cathattic was ordered for each, and the application of Dyze's Heating Embrocation externally applied to the seat of pain has removed all the unpleasant symptoms, and this morning they are restored to health. Such cases are constantly occurring, but by being suppled with this valuable remedy, a physician's bill and valuable time is saved. CHARLES H. EXTRACT FRON THE AUTHOR'S PREFACE.

"The object of this volume is neither to supersede the works which I have formerly put forth on American Field Sports and Fishing, nor yet to supply any omission in their pages.

"In fact, it is neither an abridgement of pages heretofore written, nor a compendium of facts already published; nor yet is it entirely an independent work, on a different branch of the same subject.

"It was found or believed to be the case by the publishers of those works, which, I may be permitted to say, have found some favor in the eyes of the sporting world, that a volume of less ambitious style and less expensive form, taking up the subject more rudimentally, commencing actually ad sizin, dealing more with the practice and less with the higher spirit of field sports, it sixting less on the natural history and general habits of the various species of game, and similar more at teaching the tyre in the trade how to enter himself in his apprenticeship, and how to advance until he has raised himself to be a master of his raid, is called for by the vising generation; and with that view they have intrusted to me the preparation of this manual.

"My previous works, on this and kindred topics, were included a state of the will be feather for sportsment than for beginners; this will take up the matter do ero."

"Much will be found in it, therefore, concerning the use of rended rather for aportamen uses of the concerning the use of "Much will be found in it, therefore, concerning the use of the various implements of the chase, the art of shooting animals on the wing or otherwise at speed, whether with shot or single ball, which were emitted as unnecessary in foregoing works; nor, I hope, will this matter, while it is essential to the new beginner, prove either necless or tedious to the mature sportamen—the rather that it will embody much new information of the improved science of projectiles, and severa
